

Hi, I'm the person behind @duckywithcanon.

I take photos the way I notice things – casually, curiously, and without forcing moments. I like natural light, real expressions, and scenes that feel honest. Some photos are planned, most aren't. That's part of the fun.

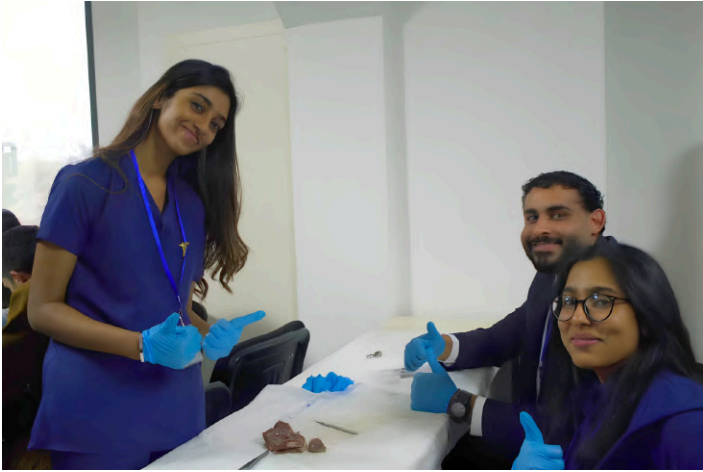

Photography started as something simple for me and slowly turned into a way of telling stories and collecting moments. This portfolio is a mix of what caught my eye and what felt worth keeping.

If you like photos that feel human rather than perfect, you're in the right place.

Sometimes I point my camera at places instead of people.
Light, skies, streets, and moments where everything feels still for a second.

Just places I stopped and noticed.

That's it — just moments I noticed along the way.

If you'd like to talk, collaborate, or shoot something together, I'm always open to a message.
